

Stay Organized in Notability

Whether you're a teacher or a student, staying organized enables you to be more productive and stay on top of your work. Teachers who use Notability have a single location to collect, grade, and provide student feedback that reduces the time between submission and feedback, and gives them one place to manage the work for all of their classes. Additionally, Notability's toolset gives teachers various mediums to design lessons and personalize student feedback. Teachers who stay organized spend more time on what they love, educating students!

The Importance of Organization for Students

For students, it's crucial to learn how to be organized. This skill will set them up for success throughout their educational careers and into adulthood. Students share success stories with us of how storing all of their school materials in a single organized location has led to better grades. Additionally, all of their material is searchable, which saves precious time when studying for exams. Below are some ideas for how students can organize their notes and assignments in Notability.

Below is an example of a great way to organize all of your school work in one place:
